This is a unique and yet highly motivated event that is bringing the greater Sacramento community together in the fight against cancer. This is unique because it is being lead by a team of not-for-profit organizations working together for the common cause through support, research, education and technology. Independently, these organizations have their own missions and events to support them, but on August 3rd they are coming together for the first time to share their desire in helping our community by “Teaming Up In the Fight Against Cancer”.

This is a highly motivated event because not only are there many soccer enthusiasts living in the greater Sacramento area, but it is a fun and wonderful way to spend the day with family and friends while being able to see a professional Major League Soccer game at the highest level. This is the first year these two teams have seen each other since 2003, and as history declares there has always been a respectful rivalry between them.

This is such a big game that San Jose Earthquakes will be sponsoring the game in the Oakland Coliseum instead of their home field at Buckshaw Stadium. This works out well for this event since it is closer to Sacramento. Why such a big game? Besides these two teams being rivals, David Beckham and other famous soccer players will be on the field.

Oakland Coliseum is the destination for buses from the Sacramento area loaded with fans anxious to watch a great game. With a 12:00 game time, the buses will leave by 9:00 am. Game souvenirs, information packets and a box lunch will be provided. There will be time to have a little tailgating party before the game. We hope to have the opportunity to see some of the players at a post game reception, arrangements pending. Each person will also receive a ticket that will be used in a drawing towards special MLS team items.
